

Important stuff:

- we need to know your full name
- your submission needs to be 450 - 1000 words.
- be sure to give a brief summary about your submission – is it a retro review? A piece on a Netflix original? Or something completely different?

We like different, btw

Optional stuff:

- images, gifs, videos. We'll provide these for you, but if there's something in particular you'd like to include, provide a link/url in your submission
- your Twitter handle – we need this if you want us to share your work on social
- a picture of yourself for your author profile

If we're happy with your submission, we'll tweak/edit as necessary and let you know when it'll be live on the site. If there's an issue with your submission or we feel it doesn't fit in with What the flick, we'll also let you know and give feedback.

Not sure where to begin?

Take a look at the content on the site to get a feel for what we're after.

Got a idea?

We want to hear it! We're always interested in showing new bits and bobs on What the flick, so share your weird and wonderful thoughts with us in an email.
